entire lives have been shaped by the events happening around us. Along with us y factors in our day to day lives have evolved too, including musical genre. One a genre is rock. Rock is a genre for the youth, by the youth, it has evolved to stay the times and stand up for what's right. In this essay I will prove why rock is a ge mple to show how genre has been defined, maintained, constructed and negotiated ugh the past 60-70 years since the very first Proto Rock song came out.

[Einstein pg6] These youth negotiate the genre and change it to their liking. For example both males and females have different subgenres of rock targeted specifically at them. Males are seen from a young age as being naughty and rowdy, not very responsible and thus given more freedom. While girls are seen as quiet and polite, with very low aggression. These traits have reflected in the genres that are targeted at the two genders. Males were targeted with Heavy Metal as it expressed the qualities the very qualities they will have to give up in order to become adults and how they will lose their freedom. While for females rock music is soft and romantic, females will typically grow up faster than males and leave youth behind in order to take up responsibilities. An

In closing, the undoubtable influence of music, more specifically of Rock 'n' Roll on American society is responsible for a number of changes to the status quo. These range from sexual liberation and racial desegregation all culminating with other influences to create an intergenerational identity. Despite the desperate attempts of older generations to smother these influences, these changes ultimately shaped the years that followed,
