

Search 123Helpme > The Positive Effects Of Problem Music

The Positive Effects Of Problem Music

1037 Words • 3 Pages

Recommended: Music And Its Effects On Society

Music is a form of art that uses sounds to create melody, harmony, and rhythm. These sounds can make people feel certain ways and is a form of expression and identity (Miller, 2012). As a result, “problem music” has been equated to delinquency because of the actions and feelings that accompany it (Peterson, 2001). From the beginnings of Sociology, music has been a focus of sociological inquiry. Although it was never a popular topic, Max Weber has used music to answer important sociological questions (Peterson, 2001). Deviant behavior is simply defined as actions that violate norms. Deviancy has many subcategories, but this fiverr.

Small screen. Big impact.

Find an app de behaviors (Price, 2011). In this study, we will be investigating the effects that rap, ...show more content...

Other research has discovered a positive relationship between this music and deviant behaviors such as rebelliousness, tolerance, risky behavior, violence, and more (North, 2004). That is why it is called “problem” music.

This phenomenon began in the 1950s when rock music became popular (Miller, 2012). These genres of music have been criticized for the negative attitudes and messages it sends to the listeners because it is seen as a kick starter to deviance (Miller, 2012). There have been several instances where music has been the sole blame for negative acts.

There are many different theories to the relationship between deviant behavior and problem music. Some researchers say that the listeners are trying to be like the artists. Others say that the lyrics make them feel like they should be deviant. A third idea is that it is just the

Show More

Related

592 Words | 2 Pages

Is music powerful enough to incite antisocial and violent behavior? According Johnson, Jackson and Gatto's study on the deleterious effects of exposure to rap music, subjects in

Read More

Synthesis Essay On Rap Music

746 Words | 2 Pages

Music can be reflection of our life experience. Each genre of music invokes different emotions and reactions in it's listeners. Rap has become a very popular genre in today's society. Is today "Gangster rap" and rappers exploiting society, introducing drugs and instigating violence? In the mid-1980s Gangster rap came to be portray images of violence, guns, gangs, drugs, and sexism. By the 1990s rap music became a major part of the industry and topped the

Read More

2681 Words | 6 Pages

The event in Littleton, Colorado, 5 years ago was a shocking wake up call to our society. Because of Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold's fanaticism with artists such as Marilyn Manson, music was labeled as the culprit for negatively influencing the youth of America. Music is a tool of expression that an artist uses to vent their frustrations and to reveal their emotions. However, these artists do not see the moral boundary that they have crossed with their emotionally disturbing lyrics and dark melodies. To grab the attention of teenagers, musicians often produce music videos with a vivid portrayal of the song's message. The heavy influence it has on kids today is in direct relation to the murders and shootings that are happening. The use of CD walkmans and the carelessness of parents are making it easier for children to get their hands on the "satanic music." The anger expressed by these musicians shows the youth that violence is culturally acceptable. Due to the strong

Read More

Racial Stereotypes Associated With Rap and Hip Hop Music

682 Words | 2 Pages

form. According to Brandt, and Viki rap music and hip-hop music are known for fomenting crime violence, and the continuing formation of negative perceptions revolving around the African-American race (p.362). Many individuals believe that rap and hip-hop music and the culture that forms it is the particular reason for the degradation of the African-American community and the stereotypes that surround that specific ethnic group. An example is a two thousand and seven song produced by artist Nas entitled the N-word. The particular title of the song sparked major debates within not only the African-American community thus the Caucasian communities as well. Debates included topics such as the significance and worth of freedom of speech compared with the need to take a stand against messages that denigrate African-Americans. This specific label turned into an outrage and came to the point where conservative white individuals stood in front of the record label expressing their feelings. These individuals made a point that it is because artists like Nas that there is an increase in gang and street violence within communities. Rap and hip-hop music only depicts a simple-minded image of black men as sex crazed, criminals, or “gangsters”. As said above, community concerns have arisen over time over the use of the N-word, or the fact that many rappers vocalize about white

Read More

542 Words | 2 Pages

In a article “Rap Music's Psychological Effects”, written by Suite 101 , studies were conducted to assess how listening to hip hop effected teenagers and young adults, and found that overall, that listening to rap music does not cause aggressive or deviant behavior. Instead hip-hop music did cause violent

Read More

Music Censorship is Not Needed

776 Words | 2 Pages

It cannot be denied that there is an excess of violence in today's music. Eminem raps about spousal abuse and murder sprees, Marilyn Manson sings of anarchy, drugs, and atheism, and Limp Bizkit urges fans to "break stuff." Some critics argue that fans will take these words seriously, and act out on the urging of their beloved artists. However, if listeners aren't mature enough to know the difference between the fictional world these lyrics invoke, and the reality that they personally live in, perhaps they aren't mature

Read More

Music and Deviant Behavior

1614 Words | 4 Pages

Often times throughout history and in today's world, music along with lyrics of songs and musical artists are blamed for deviant behavior in adolescents and teenagers. Some argue that subcultures are created because of artists and their music which leads to groups of young adults taking part in deviant behavior, while others argue the opposite; that the behavior leads the person to listen to the music. There is also concern

Read More

Rap Music And Hip-Hop Music

922 Words | 2 Pages

However, just this year a song by Miley Cyrus sparked a "twerking" outbreak, and there simply is no denying the impact it had on teenagers throughout the entire country. The problem, though, is that hip-hop music promotes things far worse than the provocative dancing that was advocated in Cyrus's song. Others argue that culture is not actually being affected by the music, and it is actually the opposite. They

However, if we accept this, we are accepting the fact that the “ghetto life” is so hopeless that an explosion of violence is

Read More

Hip Hop Music Effects On Women Essay

1482 Words | 3 Pages

Although some may say that music doesn’t directly affect the way a person acts, there has been evidence to prove that it does in fact change emotions and the way people act. Music heavily influences a person’s mindset by shaping what they place value on in the world or what they might hold dear. Music also tends to affect people’s persona and how they portray themselves to the world. Certain types of

Read More

Rap Music's Influence Upon Teenagers

1389 Words | 3 Pages

Bad Influence of Hip Hop on Youth

1022 Words | 3 Pages

Imagine our youth all over the country being exposed to this explicit kind of language. There is no need to imagine, because it is already happening. Ever since the rise of Rap and Hip Hop music, teens have been turning to them to help solve their problems. However these kinds of music can be

Read More

Why Do Violent Lyrics Cause Teen Violence?

540 Words | 2 Pages

Music, a popular outlet amongst the teen community for exploring emotions and blowing off steam. Times have changed, and the way music and lyrics are perceived has developed in a violent fashion. According to new studies,

Read More

The Effect of Music on Psychology and Behavior

2701 Words | 6 Pages

There have always been discussions of the effects music has on one's behavior, and how it's related to Psychology. The truth has never really been verified among common knowledge, but it's usually something that intrigues people. They say heavy metal and rap can make teenagers violent, sad and depressing music can make teenagers sad and depressed, and some say it's best to listen to classical music when doing schoolwork because it makes your brain more active. There have been many people that reported how

Read More

Negative Effects of Rap Music

920 Words | 2 Pages

Violent song lyrics increase negative emotions and thoughts that can lead to aggression, according to a study published in the May issue of the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology (Vol. 84, No. 5) [1]. Western Connecticut state university student Eliana Tropeano did a study examining degrading behaviors made the individual feel and conduct themselves in a more aggressive manner. The effects of how music provokes violence has been examined by many, this is due to the amount of people listening to music every day. Research has proven that exposure to such violence through

Read More

The Effects of Explicit Music

1063 Words | 3 Pages

One reason why the popular music should be less explicit is because this may trigger feelings of aggression. Daniel Levitin, a prominent American cognitive psychologist, neuroscientist, record producer, musician, and writer (2006) claims, "As a tool for arousing feelings and emotions, music is better than language." It is likely that music with negative

Read More

More about The Positive Effects Of Problem Music

Rap is Crap

592 Words | 2 Pages

Synthesis Essay On Rap Music

746 Words | 2 Pages

Musical Influence on a Violent Society

2681 Words | 6 Pages

Racial Stereotypes Associated With Rap and Hip Hop Music

682 Words | 2 Pages

Negative Effects Of Hip Hop And Country Music

542 Words | 2 Pages

Music Censorship is Not Needed

776 Words | 2 Pages

Music and Deviant Behavior

Rap Music And Hip-Hop Music

922 Words | 2 Pages

Hip Hop Music Effects On Women Essay

1482 Words | 3 Pages

Rap Music's Influence Upon Teenagers

1389 Words | 3 Pages

Bad Influence of Hip Hop on Youth

1022 Words | 3 Pages

Why Do Violent Lyrics Cause Teen Violence?

540 Words | 2 Pages

The Effect of Music on Psychology and Behavior

2701 Words | 6 Pages

Negative Effects of Rap Music

920 Words | 2 Pages

The Effects of Explicit Music

1063 Words | 3 Pages

Related Topics

Sociology

Music genre

Recently Published Essays

Why You Shouldn T Fire Me Research Paper

If I Ever Get Out Of Here Racism Quotes

The Great Gatsby Research Paper

Slave Resilience

Race Correction In Medicine Essay

Jerichimo's Hymn

Lawrence Vs. Texas Overturned Bowers V. Hardwick

Middle School Research Paper

Civil Rights Movement Research Paper

Reflection On The Crucible '

Stressful Professional Athletes

Evolution Of Tigers Research Paper

COMPANY

About Us

Contact

FAQ

LEGAL

Copyright Policy

Community Guidelines

Our Honor Code

Privacy Policy

Service Terms

Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information

123

Copyright © 2000-2025. 123Helpme.com. All rights reserved.